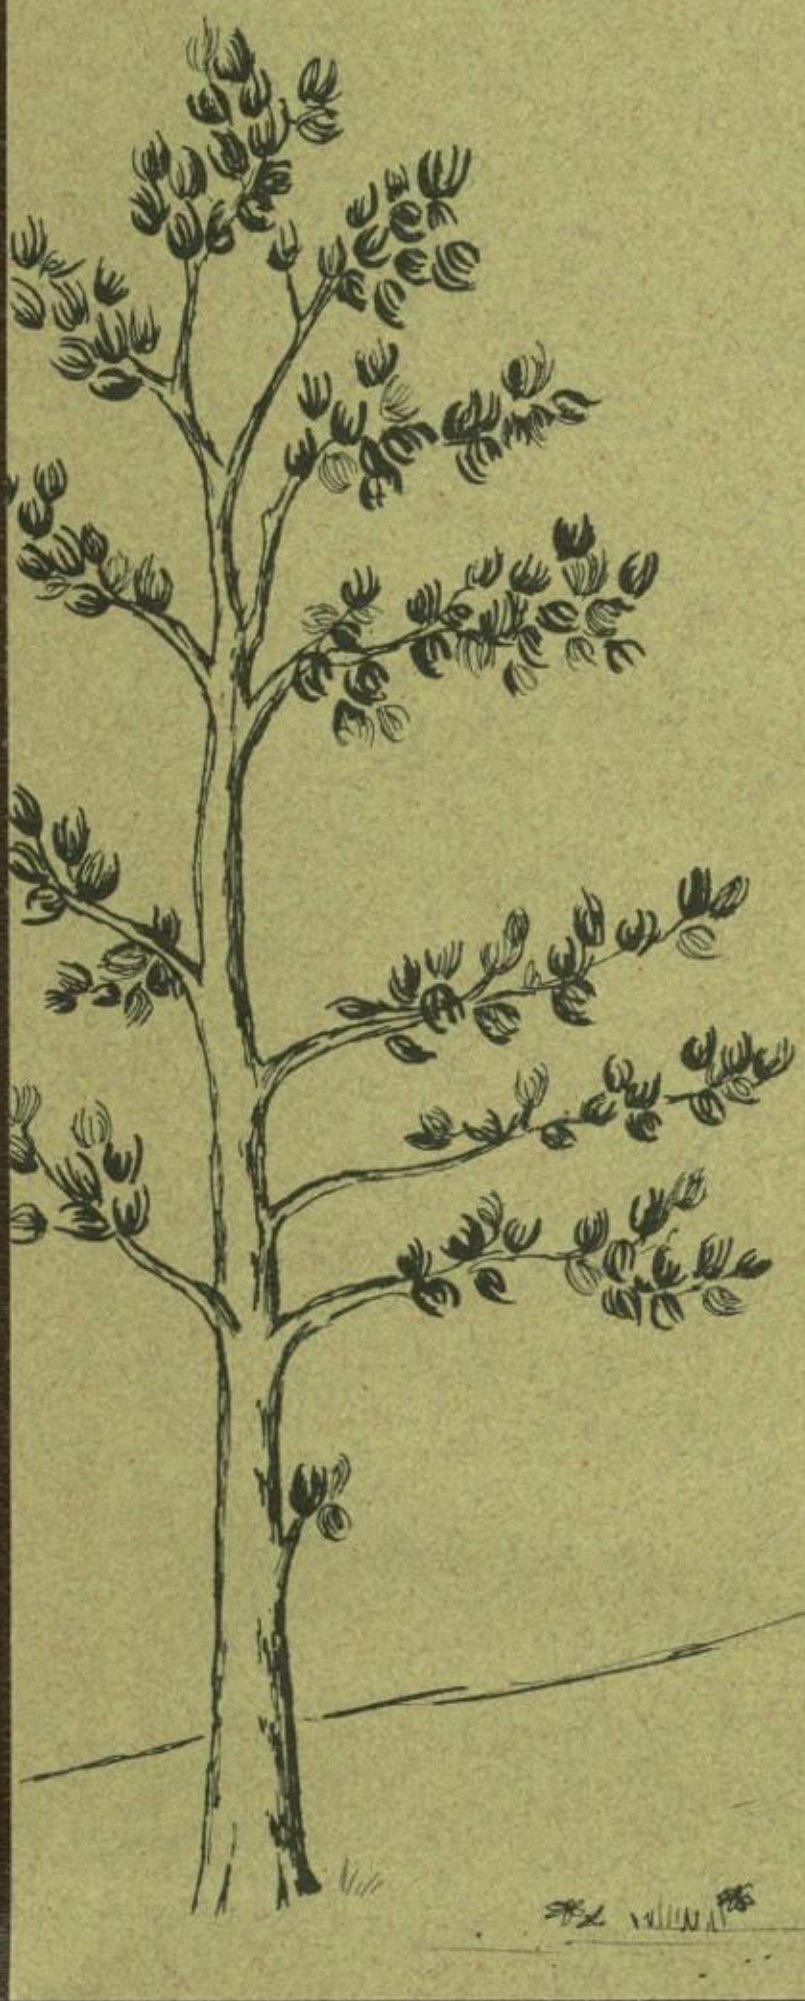
SUNNY HILLS SCHOOLS

NO TALENT LIES LATENT

A·D 1930

Barbara Kiser Szucs 1973



Clouds go quietly yet hurridly by,
and I look and see and wonder why —
Things seem to be so secure and warm, then I'm thrust upon a man-made storm —
But I will freely give up my carefree ways, for unanswered questions of bright and windy days —
I will grasp at things which are dreams to me now, and the things I learn I hope not only to share but endow — Tomorrows shadows will appear with the sun,
then I will lift my eyes and begin to run — Hoping in my haste that I will look and see all the light and beauty surrounding me —
For tomorrow will reflect what I do today,
and only tomorrow is why I live this day.

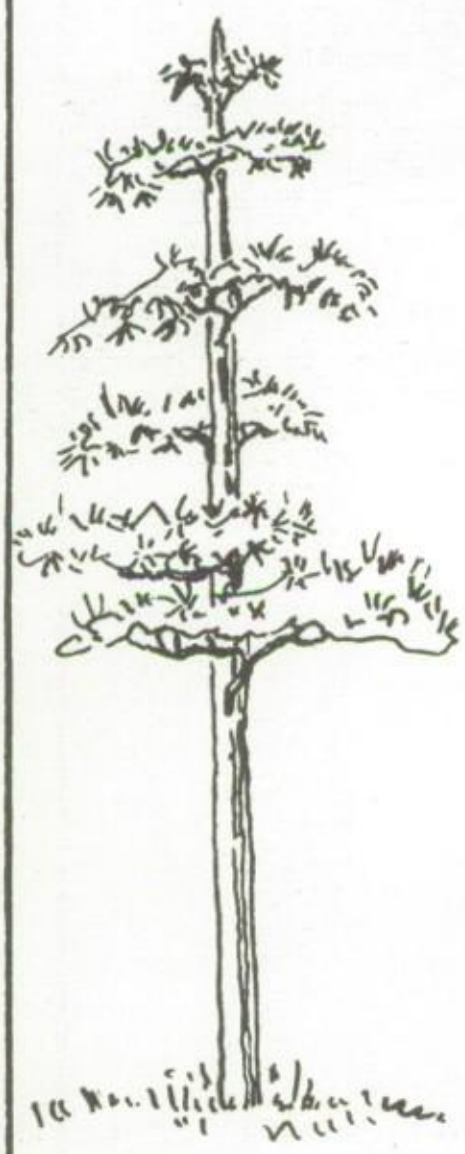
Dear Nancy

We all realize that Sanford is not only a part of us, but you are also. Your influence upon the Seniors has been beneficial and deeply fulfilled with wisdom. We have matured with your help, but most important we have grown with you rather than around you. As we depart from the school of rolling hills and whispering pines we are better prepared for our future life. Some may be crying, some may be laughing but all will remember the good memories at Sanford School.

Sincerely,

The Senior Class of '73



As Lucy, I tried to sing these words, "Yes, it's amazingly true; for whatever its worth, Charlie Brown, you're you!" It is that you who is worth so very, very much to me; for I have coached you, taught you, and loved you. Believe me, it is that you I will always cherish.

Nancy

DEDICATION

When we grow, we will suffer. For we find out the road that we travel is not always easy and the end of this road, which leads to our goals, seems never in sight. Sometimes our hearts will grow heavy. Sometimes our minds will question and doubt. And our souls will feel trouble, when we grow.

But there is a treasure that can be found amidst the restlessness in everyone's life. That treasure is friendship. The one who is a friend is always there for a friend will never desert you. He listens and never condemns because he knows how important it is to be understanding. He is a mender of damaged hearts, a stimulater of idle minds, and a solace to the soul. A friend is someone whose staunch love we cannot do without. Trust in him — for he is wise.

Jane Conner

Sweeping past in the gusts of wind, the scent of the pines and the pieces of time.
Gazing past the people, buildings and fun
I've seen shadows of my yesterday and what I shall become.
But a step in my eternity
and island in the sun
I've come to find that what is here,
Will cast a shadow, forever in my mind.
A shadow filled with learning,
A shadow filled with growth —
Giving to me as I have given, either bitterly or kind.
And though I may forget Still it has become,
A part of me,
All that is here will find a place in my heart — and out of many shadows
I'll emerge into life.
